Six PhD Research Fellowships at the Department of Archaeology, History, Cultural Studies and Religion

At the Department of Archaeology, History, Cultural Studies and Religion there are six PhD fellowships available from 1 August 2015.

Qualification requirements

Applicants must meet the formal requirements for admission to the PhD programme at the University of Bergen. The University requires the equivalent of a master's degree (i.e. 3 years bachelor and 2 years master, 300 ECTS altogether). Applicants must have completed their master's degree at the time of application.

Applications may be in any of the department's subject areas:

- Archaeology
- History
- Cultural Studies (Ethnology/Folklore)
- Religion

See <http://www.uib.no/en/ahkr> for an overview.

The project proposal should fall within one of the four subject areas and will be considered with reference to existing research milieus and available competence within the department. The candidate's main supervisor will normally come from the permanent academic staff of the department. The proposed supervisor must have confirmed his or her willingness to supervise the project, and the name of the supervisor must be stated in the application.

Salary

Salary will be in accordance with level 50 (code 1017/20.8) on the Norwegian government salary scale, currently NOK 429.700 - gross p.a. following ordinary meriting regulations.

A compulsory 2% contribution to the State Pension Fund (Statens pensjonskasse) will be deducted from gross salary.

About the positions

The research fellow must take part in the University's approved PhD program. The fellowships' main goal is to lead to a PhD degree, which qualifies for independent research activities, and for other work that requires particular qualifications.

The fellowships are awarded for a period of four years, provided progress is satisfactory. The research and educational part of the fellowships is 75%, while the last 25% is allocated to teaching and other obligations. An agreement concerning the actual work load must be made with the department at the time of employment.

The successful applicants will be expected to relocate to the University of Bergen and conform to the regulations that apply to the positions.

Further information about these fellowships can be obtained from the department's Head of Research Knut S. Vikør, tel. +47 55 58 27 11, e-mail: Knut.Vikor@ahkr.uib.no or PhD Coordinator Anna Lisa Arefjord, tel. +47 55 58 39 64, e-mail: anna.arefjord@ahkr.uib.no.

Additional information

State employment shall reflect the diversity of Norwegian society to the greatest extent possible. Age and gender balance among employees is therefore a goal. It is also a goal to recruit employees of various immigrant backgrounds as well as persons with disabilities. We encourage persons with an immigrant background and persons with disabilities to apply for the position.

The University of Bergen applies the principles of public openness when recruiting staff to academic positions. Information about the applicant may be made public even though the applicant has requested not to be named in the list of applicants. In such cases the applicant will be notified.

The appointing committee will be conducting interviews with the shortlisted candidates prior to the final decision being made.

How to apply for the job

Please apply electronically via the link "APPLY FOR THIS JOB". The following information must be enclosed (please upload in pdf or word format):

1. Dissertation proposal (max 5 pages, excluding bibliography)
2. A time schedule for the completion of your project
3. A short summary of the master thesis (max 3 pages). If your master's degree is not from a Norwegian university you may be asked to send us the complete master thesis.
4. Copies of higher education certificates and diplomas
5. List of academic publications (if any)
6. Name of supervisor

All documents must be in Word or pdf-format. Copies of higher education certificates and diplomas must be accompanied by a translation into English, Norwegian, Swedish or Danish if not written in any of these languages. Translations of diplomas and academic work must be received by the department within the application deadline.

Applicants are asked to follow the steps as described in the Guidelines for Electronic Applications at the Faculty of Humanities:
