Centre for Ibsen Studies

Associate Professor within Ibsen Studies

Job description

A permanent Associate Professor position is available at the Centre for Ibsen Studies, University of Oslo.

The position is part of the Centre for Ibsen Studies, which is world-leading in research, documentation, and dissemination of knowledge about Henrik Ibsen and his works. The centre has a two-year master's program taught in English, and in the near future it will launch the UiO's first all-digital master's program. The centre's profile is interdisciplinary and internationally oriented. In addition to a physical collection, the centre maintains a number of extensive digital resources. Currently, the centre has three permanent full-time academic staff, a permanent full-time researcher position with responsibility for the digital resources, and a permanent 50% librarian position. The centre is housed at the Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies and shares administrative support with the department.

It is expected that the person who is hired will be an active Ibsen scholar with a primary focus within one or more of the following areas: adaptation studies, performance studies, theater history, theater studies, literary studies, or related areas. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and contribute to the development of the centre's two concentrations (the traditional and the digital master's program), primarily in English, but also in Norwegian or another Scandinavian language as necessary. In addition, it is expected that the successful candidate will contribute to documentation activities.

The successful candidate is expected to initiate and lead research, supervise PhD candidates, participate in teaching and in exam setting and assessment at all levels, and to carry out administrative duties in accordance with the needs of the department.

Qualification requirements

- PhD or equivalent academic qualifications within Scandinavian literature, performance studies, theater studies, literary studies, digital humanities, media studies, history, or another discipline that is directly relevant to Ibsen studies.
- Documented pedagogical skills (either a teaching course certificate or based on teaching experience), see how to document your pedagogical skills
- Documented potential for project acquisition
- Fluent oral and written communication skills in English and a Scandinavian language
- Personal suitability and motivation for the position

The following qualifications will count in the assessment of the applicants:

- Academic qualifications and academic production in Ibsen studies, with emphasis on works published within the last 5 years. Originality and innovative thinking will be weighted more heavily than quantity
- International peer-reviewed publications
- Experience with research projects
- Potential to contribute to the long-term development of the academic and research environment at the Department
- Pedagogical qualifications, documented results from teaching and supervision, and disposition to inspire students
- Interest and ability in leadership and administration
- Ability to create and contribute to a positive environment for collaboration
- Experience with and ability to build international networks
- Skills within popular dissemination, public outreach and innovation

In the evaluation of the qualified candidates the full range of these criteria will be explicitly addressed and assessed.

Academic quality, development potential and breadth will be prioritised in this order. The selected candidates are expected to contribute to the objective in the University of Oslo's strategic plan to "strengthen its international position as a leading research-intensive university through a close interaction across research, education, communication and innovation".

The successful candidate should demonstrate mastery of both English and one of the Scandinavian languages as working languages. If an appointee is not fluent in a Scandinavian language, s/he is expected to reach proficiency equivalent to level B2 in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) within two years. Within three years the appointee is expected to, in Norwegian, be able to actively participate in all functions the position may involve, including teaching. The Faculty of Humanities will aid and facilitate the appointee in reaching said proficiency.

We offer

- Salary NOK 667 700 - 745 000 per annum depending on qualifications (lønnstrinn 68-74 LO/YS/UNIO)
- A professionally stimulating working environment
- Membership in the Norwegian Public Service Pension Fund
- Attractive welfare benefits
- The opportunity to apply for promotion to full professorship at a later stage

How to apply

The application must include:

- Application letter (statement of motivation, summarising scientific work and research interest)
- Curriculum Vitae (list of education, positions, pedagogical experience, administrative experience, project acquisition and coordination experience, and other relevant qualifications)
- Complete list of published and unpublished works
- List of reference persons: 2-3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

Please note that all documents should be in English or a Scandinavian language, either in the original or in translation.

Applicants are required to describe and document the entire range of qualifications and criteria described in the announcement of the post with concrete examples.

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system, please follow the link "apply for this job".

Selection procedure

As the first step in the evaluation process, a Selection Committee will assess all applications and invite the most qualified applicants to submit a portfolio of educational certificates and academic works (up to 10 publications, which should not exceed 500 pages in total) for expert assessment. Academic texts shall therefore not be enclosed with the application. Applicants who are invited to submit academic works are asked to select three works, published within the last 5 years, to be considered as most relevant for the position. In longer publications (monographs), applicants should specify the relevant pages. Applicants are further asked to submit a description of one or more research projects considered relevant for the Department. Applicants are also asked to submit a Educational portfolio of 3-6 pages documenting educational competence and experience, including a reflection note in which your own practice and learning vision is anchored in the SoTL criteria (focus on student learning, development over time, a research approach and a collegial attitude and practice).

Finally, the most highly ranked candidates will be invited for an interview and a trial lecture.

Formal regulations

Please see the rules for appointments to Associate Professorships.

The successful candidate who at the time of appointment cannot document basic teaching qualifications will be required to obtain such qualifications within a two-year period. Please see the rules for practicing the requirement for basic university pedagogical competence at UiO.

Within his/her normal duties and in accordance with his/her academic competence, the person appointed may also be asked to work outside his/her Department. The appointment is made under the condition that the employer may change the subject area and assigned tasks according to the needs of the Department.

According to the Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) § 25, Chapter 2, demographic information about the applicant may be used in the public list of applicants, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Centre for Ibsen Studies (CIS) is a national and international hub for research, documentation and teaching about Henrik Ibsen's life and works. The Centre is located at the Department of Linguistics and Scandinavian Studies, but has its own budget and board. The Centre's mandate is "to initiate and facilitate research and dissemination on Henrik Ibsen and his oeuvre, with the aim of strengthening Ibsen Studies in a national and international context." The main tasks of the Centre are research, teaching, dissemination and documentation. In recent years, the Centre has prioritized various digital open access resources. Among these, the electronic edition of Henrik Ibsen's writings and the relational database IbsenStage are particularly important in advancing new research on Ibsen. The Centre aims to be an international leader within the field of digital humanities.
