

PhD Fellowship in Developmental Psychology

Job description

Applications are invited for a 3-4 year position as PhD fellow in Developmental psychology, at the Section of Health, Developmental and Personality Psychology, Department of Psychology, University of Oslo. The successful candidate will provide a research proposal within the field of developmental psychology. The proposed project should fit with current or upcoming research at the section. Examples of current research topics include emotional development, mental health, parenting, testing, prevention and health promotion, prenatal risk and genetics, language learning, social cognition and executive functions.

The PhD fellow will collaborate with her/his supervisor and other colleagues at the section. The position will offer opportunities to develop high-quality research competence, to work with leading experts in the field, and develop international collaborations.

More about the position

The fellowship is for a period of three years. A 4th year can be considered with the addition of 25 % teaching requirement, depending on the competence of the applicant and the needs of the department.

The research fellow must take part in the Department's approved PhD program and is expected to complete the project within the set fellowship period. The main purpose of the fellowship is research training leading to the successful completion of a PhD degree.

The applicant must, in collaboration with her/his supervisor, within three months after employment, have worked out a complete project description to be attached to the application for admission to the doctoral program. For more information, please see our web site:

<https://www.sv.uio.no/english/research/phd/>

The section of Health, Developmental and Personality Psychology has around 25 full time employees, including professors, associate professors, postdoc and PhD fellows. Several large scale studies are conducted within various fields. Interested candidates should contact the Head of section and specific researchers to explore specific projects and possibilities.

Qualification requirements

- Applicants must hold a Master's degree (120 ECTS) or equivalent in psychology (Professional program or Master's program in psychology), or related fields. Normally, minimum grade B (ECTS grading scale) or equivalent. The Master's degree must include a thesis of at least 30 ECTS
- Strong methodological skills
- Excellent oral and written communication skills in English

Preferable qualifications

- Interest and experience in research within topics relevant for Developmental psychology.
- Enthusiasm for participating in building up research groups and collaborations.
- Ambitions for high-quality research, as evidenced by the required letter of application, explaining the motivation for applying and how own qualifications are suitable for the announced position.
- Personal suitability, motivation and willingness to collaborate with academics from diverse backgrounds.
- Teaching experience is an advantage

Personal skills

- Analytic abilities, creative thinking, high motivation
- Structured work ability and flexibility
- Ability to work in collaborative groups and independently

We offer

- Salary NOK 449 400- 505 800 per annum depending on qualifications in a position as PhD Research fellow
- The possibility to attend international conferences, courses and workshops
- A unique and flourishing research environment
- Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo's family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for culture and outdoor activities

How to apply

The application must include

- Cover letter statement of background, motivation and research interests
- Project proposal (max 10 pages) outlining study
- CV (summarizing education, positions and academic work)
- Copies of educational certificates (academic transcripts only)
- A complete list of publications and academic works
- List of reference persons: 2-3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system, please follow the link "apply for this job". International applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the applicant's academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project. Applicants may be called in for an interview.

Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Research Fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one PhD Research Fellowship period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom and Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Head of Section: Espen Røysamb, +47-22845128, espen.roysamb@psykologi.uio.no

Head of Administration: Birgitte Bøgh-Olsen, +47-22845104, birgitte.bogh-olsen@psykologi.uio.no

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway's oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Psychology is one of seven units of the Faculty of Social Sciences, and has 75 permanent and 70 temporary members of scientific staff. Degrees are offered at bachelor and master level, plus a clinical training programme, and the PhD programme has 140 students.

Jobbnorge-ID: 170325, Søknadsfrist: Søknadsfristen er gått ut