PhD Research Fellowship in Political Science (electoral research)

Job description

The Department of Political Science hereby announces a vacant position for a PhD Research Fellowship (SKO 1017). The appointment is for a period of four years with a 25% teaching requirement. In the Department, teaching is organised into five sections: public policy and administration, comparative politics, political theory, international politics, and research methods. Candidates will be part of the Faculty's PhD programme, and the work performed will be expected to lead to a PhD in Political Science.

More about the position

The fellowship entails a specialization in electoral research broadly conceived. Specifically, this means contributing to the research agenda of Norwegian National Election Studies, directed from Institute for Social Research, Oslo.

The fellow is also expected to contribute to the research milieu of the WELTRUST project ("Welfare State Support and Political Trust: Integrating Economic, Cultural, and Policy Explanations. In terms of methods and research design, it is foreseen that the fellow uses, and contributes to, the various survey- and experimental data collected by these projects. These data can be combined with a comparative approach/data.

Qualification requirements

- To be appointed to the position, the prior education must be equivalent of five years at the university level in Norway in a relevant field, with two years (120 credits) at the master's level.
- The education must include relevant education in research methods. In evaluating applications, academic qualifications and the project outline will be given more weight than other disciplinary and general qualifications.
- Successful candidates must document top grades and an MA Thesis of very high quality (at least half a year’s workload/30ECTS).
- Applicants must submit a project description of up to 3000 words outlining the electoral research topic, the specific problems to be studied, the sources of data to be used, the choice of scientific theory and method, relevance to the research projects and a realistic schedule that details how the project will be completed within the fellowship period. For more information please see Guidelines for application and admission: https://www.sv.uio.no/english/research/phd/application/phd-fellowship.html
- Further, the following skills will be considered in the evaluation: (1) English language skills, (2) methodological competencies, particularly statistical software and analysis skills, and (3) personal suitability and motivation for working with the project.

We offer

- Salary NOK 479 600-523 200 per annum depending on qualifications in a position as PhD Research fellow (position code 1017). A pleasant and stimulating working environment
- Attractive welfare benefits and a generous pension agreement, in addition to Oslo’s family-friendly environment with its rich opportunities for cultural and outdoor activities
- A travel and research budget.

How to apply

The application must include

- A cover letter statement of motivation and research interests
- A project description, including progress plan (max. 3000 words)
- A CV (summarising education, positions, and academic work)
- A Copy of the Master's dissertation
- Copies of transcripts: All applicants must submit their Master's degree diploma and transcript(s), preferably together with a class distribution of grades. The transcript must specify the grade achieved on the Master’s thesis.
- An official explanation of the grading and credit system at your university translated into ECTS-credits
- A complete list of publications and academic works that the applicant wishes to be considered by the evaluation committee A list of reference persons: 2 or 3 references (name, relation to candidate, e-mail, and phone number)

The application with attachments must be delivered in our electronic recruiting system, please follow the link “apply for this job”. Foreign applicants are advised to attach an explanation of their University's grading system. Please note that all documents should be in English (or a Scandinavian language).

When evaluating the application, emphasis will be given to the “project description” and the applicant’s academic and personal prerequisites to carry out the project. Applicants may be called in for an interview.
Formal regulations

Please see the guidelines and regulations for appointments to Research Fellowships at the University of Oslo.

No one can be appointed for more than one PhD Research Fellowship period at the University of Oslo.

According to the Norwegian Freedom of Information Act (Offentleglova) information about the applicant may be included in the public applicant list, also in cases where the applicant has requested non-disclosure.

The appointment may be shortened/given a more limited scope within the framework of the applicable guidelines on account of any previous employment in academic positions.

The University of Oslo has an agreement for all employees, aiming to secure rights to research results etc.

Contact information

Head of Department, Professor Bjørn Erik Rasch, Telephone +47 22 85 61 25
Professor Bernt Aardal, Telephone +47 22 84 42 34
Head of administration Dagfinn Hagen, Telephone +47 22 85 04 61

About the University of Oslo

The University of Oslo is Norway’s oldest and highest ranked educational and research institution, with 28 000 students and 7000 employees. With its broad range of academic disciplines and internationally recognised research communities, UiO is an important contributor to society.

The Department of Political Science is a part of the Faculty of Social Sciences and conducts research, teaching and dissemination. The Department currently has 33 permanent academic staff members, 13 research fellows conducting PhDs, six postdoctoral fellows and ten administrative employees. About 1100 students are currently enrolled in Bachelor’s, Master’s and PhD study programmes in political science, as well as the interdisciplinary Bachelor’s degree programmes in International Studies and Public Administration and Leadership, and the Master’s degree programme in Peace and Conflict Studies. The department is the host of C-REX Center for Research on Extremism.

Jobbnorge-ID: 190486, Søknadsfrist: 1. september 2020